CONVERSATIONS

An offering of speakers, presenters and experts outside of the status quo for diversity, inclusion and equity topics.

In order to change
the conversation
around diversity,
inclusion, and equity
we need new faces.

Faces that reflect the populations that they are advocating for and faces that offer fresh, diverse perspectives that are as unique as the diverse populations with which they identify. The first step in that process is connecting you with a broader database of qualified presenters, speakers, writers, activists and advocates, academics, changemakers, experts, and people passionate about making this city, and the world, a better place.

A close-up photograph of a person's hands writing in a white notebook with a red cover. The person is holding a red and white pen. On the wooden table next to the notebook is a glass jar containing a dark liquid. The background is slightly blurred, showing another person's arm. The entire image has a white dot grid overlay.
